Training Session for Bachelor of Education (B.Ed) College students on “Peace & Human Rights Through Education” was arranged in Pujyashree Madhavanji College of Education, Bhagwatipuram, Hyderabad on September 29, 2016. 64 B,Ed. Students and 8 lecturers attended the training session.

After their graduation the students of B,Ed, will join school as teachers, the training will be very useful for their teaching career to teach the students the role of peace building and human rights preservation. Trained teachers will inform and train the young minds on peace & human rights which will be helpful for their future life and they will observe the same.

Dr. Hanumantha Rao, Principal, College of Education addressed the students and lecturers regarding need of Peace & Human rights for development in all walks of life of individual/society/country and ultimately for world. As a future students they have to education the young minds/ students the importance and role of peace and human rights for individual/self/society/for our country and for world. He thanks Monique Freidizes for arranging such important training in their college and ready to work as per the advice/norms of EIP-India and International.

Balkrishna Kurvey EIP-India through power point presentation informed the role of EIP spreading the peace and human rights in the world . He with many examples address the B.Ed students and lecturers the basic principle of UN Convention on Human Rights: With examples he informed the Peace & Human Rights Article 30-Universal Declaration. Article by article with ample example he inform them the importance of every articles. India is progressing very fast but without the implementing human rights, development is not possible. Human Rights is pre-requisite for democracy, peace and development. India has ratified the UN Convention on Human rights. India has National Human Right Commission and Provincial Human Rights Commissions but people are not aware of human rights. Young teachers like you and your lecturers can be torch bearer to spread the human rights.

Dr. Nalini Kurvey, EIP- India informed the students and lecturers the Convention of Rights of Child. She emphasis on role of family in upbringing of children so that they can became good responsible citizens. Government of India ratified the Convention of Rights of Children but politicians, bureaucrats are not aware of the rights of children. We have to disseminate the information to society and we have to inform the children their rights which will pave the way for their betterment. . Child Convention is ratified by 199 countries and India ratified in 1992. She elaborated on convection on rights of child which have 54 articles and those are divided into 4 major groups.

Mr. Venkat Reddy Manager/correspondence of Aware Group and trustee of B.Ed. college in concluding remarks thank Mmonique and EP-Internationl and EIP-India for arranging such important training for B.Ed. students and lecturers. He requested EIP-India to arrange such training in all over India as India is sub-continent, many training in various cities are essential to reach and educate the teachers/people/politicians/political leaders/parliamentarians /bureaucrats etc. He said that without observing human rights |India could not progress. Being largest democracy in the world observation of Human rights is essential to pave the way for sustainable development, democracy and peace.

After inauguration session, students were divided in groups for workshop..Groups leaders narrated the findings of their groups. It was lovely experience for them.

In concluding session, students and teachers and principal ask many questions/clarifications to Balkrishna Kurvey and Nalini Kurvey. They gave their feed back and suggestion and with vote thanks, one day training session was concluded.
